A STRIKING EXPRESSION OF DESIGN

The starting point of the architecture at Union City is the arc. Simple, organic and elegant, this enduring symbol of connection links the entire community from north to south, wrapping across Enterprise Boulevard and appearing - from the balconies to the landscaped mews - in even the finest architectural detail.

A common language links the community, creating a cohesive sense of space. In phase one, three towers use similar materials in distinctly different ways, for a skyline that's integrated, yet distinct. The buildings have a clear kinship, but they're not identical - the brick, glass and metal design of the first tower is expressed in warm glowing tones, while in the others, a champagne palette rises above Union House. On all three, curvilinear balconies soften the straight edges, their alternating surfaces creating a stepped profile that appears to rise diagonally from the podium, woven together so that it's impossible to tell where one begins and the other ends.

A stepped design maximizes privacy and provides clear north or south views from every unit. In fact, the entire community aligns along a north-south axis, pointing in the direction of the downtown core, only a short ride away. At ground level, a beautiful series of open, pedestrian-centric pathways and outdoor spaces flow between the buildings, terminating in a lush woodlot to the north. In every structure, every surface, every scale, there's a consistent design expression, creating a completely immersive experience that feels, in a word, limitless.

METROPIA WHO WE ARE

Where some developers set out to develop a building, Metropia sets out with a greater purpose: to develop robust, complete, master-planned communities that change skylines and neighbourhoods, and redefine the meaning of home.

In 2009, after 25 years as Co-Founder and CEO of Tribute Communities, leading the development of over 25,000 homes, Howard Sokolowski turned his sights to a new frontier and Metropia was born. Today, under Howard's steadfast leadership, the company applies big-picture thinking to even the smallest detail, resulting in communities that are built with quality construction, unwavering integrity, and industry-leading customer care, because Howard believes that every Metropia homeowner, whether of a high-rise urban condominium or a low-rise single-family luxury home, deserves the very best. That commitment to excellence is the driving force behind Metropia's impressive portfolio of award-winning projects.

METROPIA

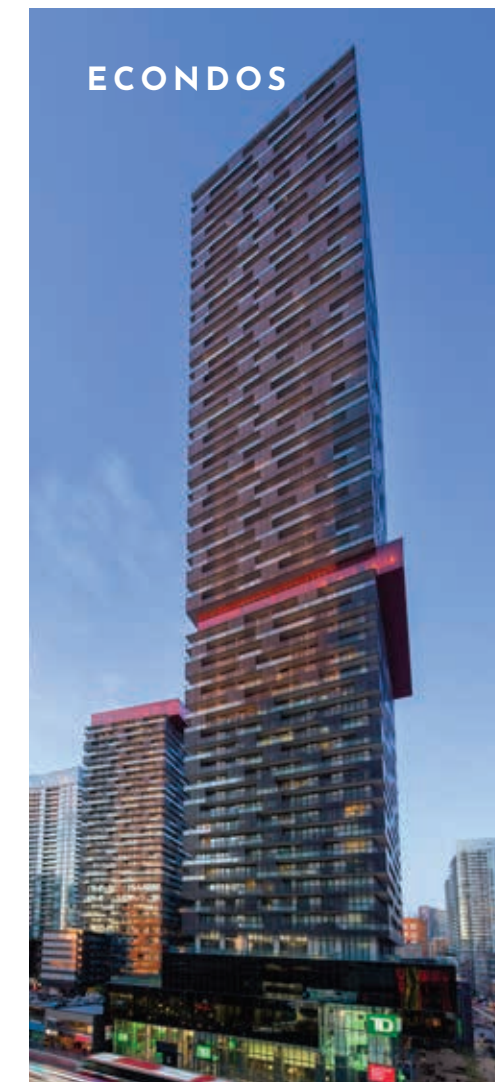

To date, Metropia has planned, built, and managed more than 14,000 residential units, in 21 communities, spanning a mix of high- and low-rise development and master-planned sites that incorporate more than 13 million square feet of residential, retail and corporate space. These thriving, integrated communities include projects like eCondos; Exhibit (in partnership with Bazis); 11YV (in partnership with RioCan Living and Capital Developments); and Union Village (in partnership with Minto Communities). While each one boasts a unique position in Toronto's residential landscape, these communities nonetheless share one defining theme: they are all poised to become a landmark destination with fully-integrated programming, filled with inspiration and built for the way people want to live.

At Exhibit, e Condos and 11YV, Metropia optimized high-rise design, creating three distinct tower communities that respond to the demands of today's urban lifestyle with an array of amenitized and experiential spaces, all strategically positioned at key transit nodes.

At Union Village, Metropia swapped height for reach, transforming the York Downs Golf Club, in the heart of Markham, into a master-planned masterpiece, full of distinctive homes, modern amenities, abundant green space, and a location that offers urban access and small town appeal. The community eschewed the idea of cookie-cutter design, opting instead for a landscape of beautiful homes and new local landmarks that created the feeling of a long-established neighbourhood. It was the start of a new era of considered residential design in Unionville-Markham, one that continues with the introduction of Union City.

Once again, Metropia is poised to change the landscape and raise the bar, delivering a never-before-seen level of residential design, this time to high-rise living in Unionville-Markham. And, with extensive expertise in every facet of the development industry - from land acquisition, to securing approvals, to sales and marketing, to construction, to award-winning customer support - they are uniquely positioned to make this community another enormous success.

Welcome to a different approach to development. Welcome to Union City.
